

The Hutto Food Truck Court

Maybe you've driven past the Gin located at 420 HWY 79 and thought "Hmm... that empty lot next to the Gin looks like a great place for something...but what?" Well, that empty space is actually 408 Farley Street and is a Food Truck Court.

Mind. Blown.

But wait, did you know that Hutto's Food Truck Court lot has been designated by HPC since 2012? Pretty interesting. The first food truck was the Cheesehaus in March of 2015 followed by a second food trailer called Dessert First in August of that same year. We now have confirmation that Hutto's 3rd Food Truck will be Elsie's Eggrolls! Salivating yet? You will be at the end of this:

Frequenting many Downtown Hutto gatherings such as the upcoming Sunset Music Series, Elsie's Eggrolls has become a local sensation! If you find pleasure in consuming food, Elsie's Eggrolls and Filipino food is for you.

Now, all of Elsie's food is good, but I must discuss my true obsession with her namesake: Eggrolls. Before you can even take a crispy bite of deliciousness, alluring aroma seeps into your senses causing an automatic drool effect. Don't be embarrassed of this, it happens to the best of us. After a quick recovery and before you even realize what you're doing, you begin to bring the eggroll toward your salivating mouth...slow-motion style. A delicately flaky wrapper fried to perfection surrounds the steamy decadence of veggies and/or chicken. Embrace the anticipation because once you actually start eating the eggroll, it's over before you know it!

The Food Court can accommodate 4-5 trucks, but since there isn't any power or water available at this time, any interested Food Truck vendors would need to have a generator. However, the more Hutto residents become involved and interested, the more food variety we could potentially have in Hutto! Community participation is key in every aspect of growth, so be the change you wish to see!
